OVERVIEW

Company Overview

At J.W. Speaker we strive to be the best. Just as we constantly explore new and emerging LED lighting technologies to provide better performance for our OEM and aftermarket customers, we continue that exploration throughout our branding. From developing innovative campaigns that showcase our LED technology to creating high-quality design work. We are Driven. To See More.

Since our brand is crucial to the success of our business, adherence to the following is mandatory both internally (within J.W. Speaker) and externally (companies that do business with J.W. Speaker):

- Promotion of J.W. Speaker's brand, capabilities and/or products must be done in accordance with the guidelines outlined in the branding guide. The official logo is our formal identity and the visual element that ties all of us together.
- New products, packaging, marketing, documentation, or any other manifestation of J.W. Speaker branding must comply with the branding guide.
- Existing products, packaging, marketing, and documentation that do not comply with the branding guidelines should be phased out as inventories are depleted. Directionally, we encourage prudence in this matter.

Our brand is one of our most valuable assets. It defines who we are, what we do, and how we do it. For these reasons, it is imperative that we present a consistent brand identity in everything that we do. Thank you for all that you do to help maintain our reputation for being the world's preeminent provider of innovative LED lighting solutions.

Model Logo Usage

Model logos are an important part of the J.W. Speaker brand. With the expanding line of aftermarket lights, it is important to distinguish products from each other and to add assets to the brand. The standard model logo features metallic numbers and border with a black background. If a product model is an additional evolution of a model, has specialized technology, or needs further differentiation but is not a subset of a series logo, text or details will be added.

Series Logos

J.W. Speaker is the master of lighting technology, and develops lines of product around a certain technology, vehicle, or lighting solution. Whenever 3 or more products are designed and marketed together, a Series Logo will be designed and implemented on all marketing materials that pertain to its products.

When a Series Logo is created, the Model Logos that fall under that series should have a similar aesthetic and should mention the series within the logo.

Tone of Voice

J.W. Speaker's voice and tone express our brand's essence. As an industry leader, the way we speak to the user is important in order to express our knowledge and experience in the industry. We embrace an audience-first type of communication that is clear and easy to understand.

We are bold.

Being proud and confident of our company, products, and technology is natural. Embrace it.

We are innovative.

We are continually learning, exploring, and evolving. An innovative and scientific voice is essential to our brand and its identity.

We are inspiring.

While we are bold, we also are inspirational. Our voice sparks creativity for our customers.

We are optimistic.

In the business of design and engineering, an active and optimistic tone is essential. It is what sets us apart from competitors and should be celebrated.

Aftermarket Design

A small portion of J.W. Speaker's overall business caters to the automotive, powersport, transport, and industrial aftermarkets. It is important that all branding guidelines are upheld when creating marketing materials for these markets. There are few select areas where aftermarket marketing differs from OEM. For example a heavier use of Helvetica is encouraged when creating design work for the aftermarket. Additionally imagery is limited to high resolution images and product renders. Illustrations are reserved for OEM marketing. When designing aftermarket materials, the primary J.W. Speaker color palette should be use with the additional option of the coordinating market specific color palette.

OEM Design

J.W. Speaker is uniquely positioned to provide end-to-end vertical integration manufacturing capabilities for custom OEM's - from conceptual designs to superior, mid-volume manufacturing. It is imperative that all branding guidelines be upheld when creating successful OEM designs. Typography guidelines should also be upheld, but a heavier use of Termina is encouraged. Images, renders, and illustrations can all be used, given that they are of high quality and resolution. Many OEM customers have privacy rights. When publicly or externally showing images of a specific OEM client, permission must be obtained by the coordinating sales representative. Only the primary J.W. Speaker Color Palette should be used when designing OEM materials.

IMAGERY

Photography

When taking or creating lifestyle imagery, our products are the focal point. A variety of applications and settings are encouraged to showcase the range of usage. Surroundings should feel natural or authentic while not taking away from the vehicle or product. The product should be clear and bright.

Photos should be bold and dynamic, emphasizing the lifestyle of our customers. The composition of the images should be engaging and speak to the high quality of J.W. Speaker products.

Product Renders

Clean and captivating, J.W. Speaker products are rendered to ensure the use of the highest quality of imagery possible. Products are rendered at four primary angles: face forward, 3/4 or at 22.5° facing to the right, side, and back. Additional views may be added if necessary. Product should be rendered in each applicable bezel color and should avoid harsh shadows and black backgrounds. If a product is updated or modified with noticeable changes to the optics, housing, lens or any other modification, the product needs to be re-rendered or photoshopped to reflect the new adjustments.

Renders should use a variety of lighting techniques to bring dynamic range to the product render.

Front View

3/4 View

Side View

Back View

Note: Reflections and shadows should be added to all product renders so that the product appears to sit on a surface. These are added post production to each product and angle.

Illustrations

While photo and render based images are the primary visual resource used by the company, illustrations are another great resource. Our illustrations are often designed for a specific use and should have a stylized, technical, and intriguing aesthetic that should look as realistic as possible. The primary use of illustrations is to show the various technical capabilities of the company. New illustrations created for J.W. Speaker should reflect the style of the concept sketches below.

3D Renders

In order to bridge the gap between new and emerging LED lighting technologies and applications, 3D renders are created to show real world visuals that customers can understand. When creating 3D renders for J.W. Speaker, video is the preferred resource as it is the best option to showcase the full functionality of our products. Vehicles, placements, atmosphere, and lighting should look as realistic as possible.

RESOURCES

Marketing Materials

J.W. Speaker promotes its brand through various types of resources that include but are not limited to brochures, catalogs, case studies, instruction sheets, eBooks, price sheets, and sell sheets. J.W. Speaker also promotes its products and brand through other types of marketing materials such as branded retail displays, business cards, sales cases, banners, and trade show displays. All of these resources should thoroughly follow the branding guidelines and should be carefully designed to fit the product, application, target audience, and customer. Most importantly, our marketing materials are how the brand comes to life and should use all the key design elements outlined in this guide.

Packaging

Packaging plays a specific role in J.W. Speaker's branding and in our end users' experience. We are selective in which aftermarket products receive packaging labels and which deserve fully branded packaging. Our packaging is clean, simplistic, informative and follows all of our design principles. For product packaging that is not just a label, fully branded packaging is designed to meet the specific needs and style of the product's end user.

Video and Animation

Starting and Ending Frames

All videos should start and end with the J.W. Speaker animated logo. Logo animation should be dynamic, bold, and capture the viewers attention.

Shots and Framing

To speak to the versatility of the company a variation of angles and perspectives should be used when filming. Use of both long shots and close shots can be used. The rule of thirds should always be used when filming.

Animating

Similar to logo animations, other animated elements should be bold. Incorporate movement, graphics and icons. Simple text animations should be impactful but not distracting; allow them to enhance other elements.

Audio

Audio should match the company's tone of voice. All music should be bold, innovative ,inspiring, and/or optimistic. Audio should also match the message of the video content.

Social Media

Platforms

J.W. Speaker has a presence on most major social media platforms. Here are our most active accounts and what we usually post on each:

Facebook: Product news & marketing, events, media mentions, company news, user content

Instagram: Product news & marketing, events, company news, user content

LinkedIn: Product news & marketing, events, media mentions, company news

YouTube: Product news & marketing, company news, product information

J.W. Speaker Corporation
@jwspeaker | #jwspeaker

Content Curation

J.W. Speaker's content is heavily image based. Utilize our photography guidelines to direct use of images on social platforms. Video, graphics, and animation are also encouraged but must fit within guidelines and should not overpower image content.

Tone

While J.W. Speaker wants to maintain a consistent tone of voice across the brand, we also recognize that social media allows for a more personal relationship to our customers. Utilize puns, emojis and hashtags when applicable.
